Circular dated 24th August 1954.

Subject :—Orders conveying financial Sanctions.

No. Fl (B). 7021-8020. The following instructions in regard to the issue of orders conveying financial sanctions are laid down, for the information and guidance of Drawing and Countersigning Officers :

The Accountant General has suggested that all letters or orders conveying sanctions to expenditure, appointments, etc., must be signed by an authorised Gazetted Government servant and that all such financial sanctions should be prepared and communicated to audit under the signatures of the officers concerned in ink and never over cyclostyled signatures.

There are two types of risks involved in the acceptance of sanctions over cyclostyled signatures. One, which is the more serious, is the danger of cyclostyled signatures being taken from previous stencils and by introducing them to fabricate spurious sanctions. The other is the possibility of acting on more than one copy of the genuine sanctions communicated over cyclostyled signatures.

It is, therefore, directed that all financial sanctions should invariably be prepared under the signatures of the officers concerned in ink and not over cyclostyled signatures.
